

EMBA 504 Principles of Management

Course Description:

This course covers the understanding of the basic concept, components, importance and application of principles of management. The course also tries to cover managerial levels, functions of management, managerial roles, management skills, and development of major management theories. Simultaneously, this course emphasis on the learning of decision-making process, types of problems and decisions, the types, methods and necessities of planning and goals. In addition, BCG matrix, Five Forces model, the importance of and elements of organizing, the organizing process and structures, types and roles of groups and teams will be taught in this course. A large portion of this course are on the concept, equation, early theories and contemporary theories of motivation, variable pay programs, the types, power and styles of leadership, management vs. leadership, theories of leadership, importance of controlling, characteristics of three approaches to control systems, managerial ethics and communication. So, this is expecting that learners explore this course as both challenging and enjoyable as also as necessary in their both practical and professional life.

Course Objectives:

- Provides a knowledgeable concept on the importance and the application of management theories in a firm.
- Develops the understanding in the area of how decision-making process is worked and investment decisions are made in the firms.
- Clarifies the importance of plans and goals for a business.
- Provides a clear concept on the understanding on distinguishes among various organizational design and controlling approaches.
- Describes the role and function of efficient managers in an organization.
- Explains the different necessary motivating tools, staffing techniques and development process of human resources of an organization.
- Applies the concept of team and group work practices in business firms.
- Diagnoses the different ways of leading in different firms.
- Describes the practice of managerial ethics and communication in working background.
- Motivates the learners to develop research work on the development of management practices in the organization.

Learning Outcomes & Contents:

- This course is planned to aid students understand and use the concepts and approaches of management for working effectively and efficiently in organization.

- Emphasis and develop the ability of the learners to work with team and group through planning the strategies to achieve the goals of firms after identifying the problems.
- Diagnose the early and contemporary theories of management and apply and develop the advocated theories based on the situation.
- Interpret the relationship plans and goals in order to develop a decision-making process.
- Investigate and apply the appropriate organizational design and motivational techniques to develop the enthusiasm of the employees to work promptly.
- Demonstrate the application of managerial ethical practices and communication approaches within the organization.

At the end of the course, learners will be able to analyze the managerial roles, functions and levels of several companies. This course will foster students to obtain the characteristics of leaders and managers for conducting an organization by the uses of applicable motivational and staffing techniques.

Brief Contents:

Chapter 1 Management and Organizations

Chapter 2 Understanding Management's Context: Constraints and Challenges

Chapter 7 Managers as Decision Makers

Chapter 8 Foundations of Planning

Chapter 9 Strategic Management

Chapter 10 Basic Organizational Design

Chapter 12 Managing Human Resources

Chapter 16 Motivating Employees

Chapter 17 Managers as Leaders

Chapter 18 Introduction to Controlling

Required Reading Materials:

Text Books:

1. Robbins, Stephen, P. & Coulter, M. (2016). Management. London: Pearson.
2. Griffin, Ricky, W. (1997) Fundamentals of Management, USA: South-Western College Publication
3. Weihrich, H., Cannice, M. V., & Koontz, H. (Latest). Management- A global Entrepreneurial Perspective. Tata McGraw Hill.

Reference Books:

1. Kreitner, R. & Cassidy, C. (2012). Management. Boston. United States: Cengage Learning
2. Carpenter, M., Bauer, T. & Erdogan, B. (Latest). Management Principles. Unnamed Publisher.

Evaluation

Mid Term (Announced)	: 30
Quiz (Announced & Unannounced)/Class Test	: 10
Assignment /Report & Presentation	: 10
Class Attendance & Participation	: 10
Continuous Assessments	:60
Final	:40

Grading Policy:

As per the grading policy of the EMBA Program, Faculty of Business Studies, Jahangirnagar University.

Missed Quiz, Tests, Assignment and Presentation:

There will be no make-up/ re-take for the missed Quiz, Tests examination. If anyone misses such examination, he/she will receive a zero grade for that particular examination.

Late submission of assignments is strongly discouraged. Failure to submit any assignments on due time and date will be penalized. The extent of such penalty will be based on the length of deviation from the original date and time.

You are strongly advised to attend all the oral presentation sessions. There will be no further arrangement for anyone, for whatever reason, if he/she fails to attend the presentations session on due date and time.

Academic Dishonesty:

Students are advised to be careful when handling assignments that are based on individual work. Zero or 'F' grade will award in case any work is found to be copied and/or plagiarized. In the event of group, each assignment/report and case studies, the penalty for such offence will be carried out by each of the group member equally irrespective of the extent of personal effort given to group work

The Time and Date:

Saturday: 8.15 -10.45am (Room No # 24)

Mahfuza Khatun

Associate Professor,
E-mail: mahfuza02@juniv.edu
Finance & Banking Department,
Jahangirnagar University, Savar, Dhaka